MISSIONARY STORIES -Some of the biggest yarns now circulating about Central Africa purport to come from missionaries with vivid imaginations. A French missionary who has just returned from Uganda is epinning some stunning stories unless the Paris newspapers do him injustice. - They represent him as saying that King Mwangs has 1,500 wives, which is probably true, but there is no truth in the assertion that this royal young savage kills five of them every day for amusement. He also eave that Mwanga rules over 10,000,000 people, which handsome figure, if divided by 8, will more nearly accord with the facts. He strays equally far from the truth when he says that Mwanga selis every year 150,000 siave to the Arabs and yet this sort of stuff is solemaly republished in some of the English newspapers as news. Mr. Brooks, an English missionary, started up the Mobangi river last spring with the hopeful idea that he was destined to reform the savages who in December last proved a little too strong for Capt. Van Gele and a boat load of soldiers. Mr. Brooke has come home with valuable nuggets of knowledge gained by experience, and a few hearsay reports. He says that on the Aruwimi river, among the Manyema slaves of the Araba, it is a common thing to see human heads and feet sticking out of their cooking pots and that the Zanzibar traders permit them to prey upon the surrounding tribes to supply their larder with human flesh. Mr. Brooke has been promptly squelched by a statement on the authority of Capt. Van Gele, who has just returned from the Arnwimi, that noth-

STORY ABOUT RAYMOND .- A good story illustrative of the presence of mind of the late John T. Raymond, is told by an old actor. Raymond's company was making a one night stop in a little Georgia town. The space was very narrow under the ocean, and the bobbers got quite warm. This particu-lar little negro felt the heat. He removed one by one his habiliments, until his red shirt alone covered his nakedness. In the shirt alone covered his nakedness. In the midst of one of Raymond's best gags the old J.R. Chapman blue cloth ocean suddenly ripped and broke. and the aforementioned little negro was seen gallantly struggling with the waves. "Man overboard!" cried out Raymond. Some of the stage hands, dressed as sailors, rushed in and threw the little negro a rope. The "drowning wave" grabbed an end and the sailors dragged him out. When the audience saw the little pickaninny in nothing but his red flannel shirt, they simply roared The little negro was the hero of the town ever afterward.—N. Y. Evening Sun.

> MILLIONS OF GRASSHOPPERS KILLED .-When the English took possession of the Island of Cyprus it was annually ravaged by grasshoppers to such a degree that its crops were hardly worth consideration. In five years, and at a cost of only some $300,-000, the insects were destroyed, and it now cost, the insects were destroyed, and it now costs about $$,000 a year to keep the land free from their ravages. The method used to such good effect is now being tried with results which promise to be equally satisfactory in Algiers and Spain. When a column of grasshoppers is known to be approaching a screen formed of cotton cloth, about sixty yards in length and one yard in width, is stretched in front of it, sometimes in straight and sometimes in a V-shaped line.
> Along the upper edge of the cloth a strip of oiled or varnished stuff is sewn, over which the insects cannot crawl; and in front of it great pits are dug, the borders of which are encircled by strips of zinc slanting downward. These pits are soon filled with the grasshoppers, which are trampled down by barefooted natives, and buried under earth with which disinfectants are often mixed. According to Le Genic Civil, it is estimated that this year 400,000,000 of grasshoppers were thus destroyed in Algiers by the mid-dle of June. It is needful that the screens oct10
